

Faces of the Front:

Zach Dobelbower of Ecohouse

Zach Dobelbower is President of Ecohouse, one of our neighborhood's green businesses. They are located at 808 L Street SE, near Virginia Avenue Park. EcoHouse combines comprehensive financial analysis with advanced building science retrofit strategies to offer innovative, cost-effective, deep energy retrofit and design strategies.

Zack explains, "Broadly speaking, we try to improve the quality of life for building occupants and owners through high-performance retrofit solutions for the built environment." Ecohouse has been part of our community for a year and half, offering DC homes and businesses energy efficiency auditing, sustainable design consulting, and other services. Check out their website to learn more.

Zach's favorite part about the Capitol Riverfront is the feeling of revitalization that is catching on. "As a business owner, what I really like is all the sustainable features of the neighborhood. There is truly a cluster of sustainable development here, and it showcases what can be done in the District."

He chose the Capitol Riverfront neighborhood after working for the District government in the Anacostia Waterfront Corporation. Zach said he "saw the plans of what was happening with the stadium, Yards Park and waterfront." He realized that the Capitol Riverfront would be another small city within the city, but would also have a neighborhood feel.

